

Paying Attention

This relates to the art of being able to do 2 things at a time e.g. continue playing with a toy, whilst holding a conversation with you. This is a developmental process that will come in time, but good to keep a look out for.

Points of View

It's important to give your child the opportunity to express their own choices, likes, dislikes and points of view. You may not agree with them, but they need to know it's ok to have them and to learn the art of debate.

The Art of Conversation

Give your child the words/phrases to support them in being able to start a conversation. Remind them of the importance of listening and taking turns to speak.

Imaginative Talk

Encourage your child to add narrative to their play. What are they making? What can it do? Where will you go? Who will be the driver? Or simply add to the narrative and play along with their ideas.
